Areas of expertise

Alex joins Quod with over three years' experience working at private consultancies in London. He became a chartered member of the Royal Town Planning Institute (RTPI) in 2023.

In his previous role, Alex worked on strategic planning, advising clients on primarily residential development on greenfield and greenbelt land and working with clients from the very start of the planning process through to delivering consent. His focus was in Kent and understanding the political and planning changes in the County. He also led on tourism and leisure developments.

Alex now focuses on energy and transport infrastructure planning and is looking forward to developing his skills in this area.

Key experience

Data Centres – Alex is supporting the client through the initial pre-application stage, aiming for a planning submission by July 2024 for a data center in Somerset.

Gatwick Northern Runway Project – The Northern Runway Project involves bringing the Gatwick's existing northern runway which is used for emergency use into routine operation. Alex provides ongoing project support during the Examination period through to the Decision.

National Grid – Alex is helping provide strategic advice to support National Grid meet its commitment to Biodiversity Net Gain across its network.
